

Over the cabinet towel bar

I used to drip across my kitchen floor constantly. I couldn't help it. The towel to dry my hands which hung on the refrigerator was across from the sink. I confess, I'm kind of a cleanliness freak and I must wash my hands at least a dozen times during dinner preparation with all of the interruptions I get. By the time dinner is in the oven, I have drips all over the floor which manage to attract dirt and everything else (ie more cleaning- oh lucky day!) Well, I've found a solution to my problem and I thought I'd share it with all of you with thoughts that just maybe, you have wrestled with this too. These over the cabinet towel bars fit on any cabinet instantly giving you a towel anywhere you need it in the kitchen and they come in two colors which allow you to match nearly any decor. I've attached mine to the cabinet just under the sink. Happy hand washing and enjoy your dry floor!
